

CONNECT. INSPIRE. EMPOWER.

The Destination Imagination (DI) global network of alumni is one million strong and growing. From engineers to educators, filmmakers to CEOs, many participants go on to become innovators and leaders in a variety of fields—and they don't stop there.

Are you an alum of the program looking to give back?

When I was in Destination Imagination, I learned the value of being on a team: making a play together, taking different people's ideas, and playing to their strengths. That's still the artist I try to be. I'm in a writing duo and a directing duo, and we take that same ethos into how we work with our cast and crew: how are we all going to work together to figure this out and make something?"

Andrew Berry's advice to current DI teams:
"Really compete in earnest and realize that you're developing life skills along the way."

"Without a doubt, Destination Imagination had a profound impact on me. It taught me how to manage a complex project more efficiently, how to overcome failure, and how to speak in front of an audience."
